Whereas (2): The graduate student population at the University is going to increase significantly with the establishment of the Dell Medical School.

Whereas (4): Many graduate students seek the opportunity to live on the university campus in order to increase their interaction with colleagues, to live in close proximity to their research facilities, to participate in student service, leadership, and cultural activities vital to the quality of the graduate student experience; and

Whereas (5): Graduate students historically sacrifice economic well-being to pursue their education and are not previous residents of Austin, and therefore seek quality affordable, safe housing with other graduate students on the university grounds, for social, economic, academic and safety reasons¹; and

Whereas (6): Availability of affordable and safe housing facilities serve as an important incentive to attract qualified and motivated students into the different graduate programs at the University; and

Whereas (7): The University through the Division of Housing and Food Service owns and operates three apartment complexes located in the Lake Austin area: Brackenridge Apartments (1982, 1984), Colorado Apartments (1962), and Gateway Apartments (1972); and

Whereas (8): All University of Texas at Austin (UT Austin) full-time graduate students are eligible to apply for student housing offered by University Apartments.

1. A Resolution to Support the Renovation and Addition of University-Owned Housing Complexes for Graduate and Professional Students, 2009

Whereas (12): The number of housing units currently available for graduate students offered by University Apartments is limited and cannot meet the demand as evidenced by the long waiting list. Thus, many graduate students are forced to find alternate accommodations which are more expensive, far from campus, and/or not safe².
